Home Education Defined

Inspired by overseas homeschooling books and magazines published since the 1960s families such as ours decided to live without school and teach their children from home. Over the last couple of decades the internet has helped to spread the word and the number of home educating Australian families has grown considerably, with an estimated 50,000 children receiving their education in this way. The reasons given for choosing home education are as diverse as the individual families. Parents often revise and add to their original reasons for home educating as the social, developmental and academic benefits accumulate over the years.

Home educating parents want to experience greater control over the direction and content of their children's education. It is only in recent human history that parents have handed the responsibility of their children's education to others. Home educating parents discover that helping their children learn is a joyous, although at times challenging, task that brings rewards beyond academic education. Learning together as a family builds a wonderful sense of community: this is the foundation for the development of responsible citizenship and healthy, happy and cooperative societies.

The nature of home education allows for incredible flexibility and diversity: parents are able to teach their children to suit their family's values and beliefs; use resources and materials to suit their individual children's learning needs and styles; and to explore and experiment with many different approaches to education. Families are able to evolve their own educational philosophies to suit their own particular circumstances and needs. Home education is a legal alternative to school education across Australia and support networks exist in all regions, providing information and sharing experiences among home educating families.

Why a Home Educating Families in Business Directory?

It's well known that home educating families do it tough when it comes to income—most of us either need to give up that second family income, or the potential to earn one, when we make the decision to home educate our children. Some of us are able to transition to part-time employment, and others start small businesses from home to help supplement our incomes while we stay at home to supervise our children and help them learn. And there are many home educating single parent families who rely on whatever they can earn from part-time employment or from running their own businesses. This directory is here to enable all of us support each other by directing sales and business their way!

The way I see it, every time we chose to buy or use a service provided by a home educating family we are helping to enable home education to flourish and grow, and that's a good thing!

You'll find two separate lists of businesses in this directory for your convenience. Because the internet has meant that distance is no longer the problem it used to be, I've listed the businesses in alphabetical order of the name of the business in categories, and after that listed them in alphabetical order of town or region under the state or territory where it is located.

If you have a business and would like it added to the directory, email beverleypaine@theeducatingparent.com. Include your name, your town, your business name, your website url or email address and phone number. If you wish to include an image for a display ad, or additional information, please see our advertising information on our page <http://theeducatingparent.com/advertise.html>. Display ads will be included in all our other directories—our premier Resource Directory with information about home education and how to get started, our Support Groups Directory, BIG List of Home Ed Books Directory and our Aussie Home Ed Blogs Directory. This ensures considerable exposure to potentially thousands of home educating families across Australia!

And don't forget we also have a Free Resources Section in each of our directories where you can promote freebies. My aim is to help you reach the people who can help you build and grow your business— your customers and clients! So please, share any of my The Educating Parent Resource Directories far and wide and encourage people to advertise and list in them.

The directories are produced annually and updated regularly, so don't hesitate to contact me to list your business.

Is your child:

- needing extra support in a specific learning area?
- having trouble 'cracking the code' of reading?
- gifted and craving more extension and challenge?
- wanting mentoring in an ongoing project?

My reluctant reader comes out of each session feeling confident and proud of his progress! – Jude

Catherine has a lovely, gentle and patient nature and is a fantastic asset to the home educating community. I enthusiastically recommend her services to other families. – Tamara Shatar, President of SHEN

Hi, I'm Catherine!

I am a trained primary school teacher who has been working closely with home-educating families for 6+ years. I'm dedicated to the broader picture and relate with each child holistically, supporting them to flourish in their way.

My eldest had learning difficulties and was unable to read until he was over 8 (though has now more than made up for lost time and is a very competent and avid reader at age 11). I attribute much of his confidence and passion for reading to his tutoring with Catherine. – Lousie Howes

Conquer Math!

PRESS is a simple method explained in MATH IS NOT MAGIC that will equip students AND parents with Math understanding.

Developed to help everyone solve Math word problems and help to easily comprehend abstract reasoning.

IMPROVE YOUR TEST SCORES!

PRESS can be used universally with all High School Math Courses: Beginning Algebra, Advanced Algebra, Geometry, Trigonometry, Calculus, Probability and Statistics.

In MATH IS NOT MAGIC, for each branch of math, four classic examples and their solutions, using one universal method, PRESS, are displayed.

MATH IS NOT MAGIC

For all homeschool Math students and their parents.

Students progressing from Arithmetic to Advanced Math will need to learn how to solve word problems. PRESS transforms abstract word problems back to simple Arithmetic. Students will be able to pinpoint exactly where they need help. Your students will love you for simplifying Math.

Word problems occur daily in Science Courses. Use PRESS here too!

USE THE ONE UNIVERSAL METHOD – PRESS!

PRESS – a method that defines Math.

During May 2017 experienced Australian home educators came together to present a series of live workshops and presentations. Now you too can access the content and all the resources from ALL the workshops ~ whenever you like ~ with the Return and Learn Bundle!

Full recordings of all 13 live workshops, plus their associated chat boxes and downloads, PLUS over 25 hours in total of fantastic homeschooling and unschooling help, on topics such as deschooling, university preparation, self-care for parents, home educating styles and more. AND 14 bonus resources!

“I came away feeling more confident, and more prepared to let go ... even more. I’m already noticing the difference ... easy does it. Thank you so much for a complete experience...”

“Being able to chat online with the person giving the workshop was fantastic. I really liked the unschooling information Beverley was able to give to online chatters personally, that was a really fantastic session, it felt very personal. You wouldn’t probably have this luxury with a face to face conference.”

“...an invaluable resource for a new homeschooler like myself. Being able to access it from the comfort of my own home was so convenient...”

“I feel so much more confident and motivated to pursue homeschooling after attending this conference.”

Sound like something you want to benefit from?

Getting Started with Home Schooling

Practical Considerations
for Parents of School Aged Children

BEVERLEY PAINE

Australia's first homeschooling manual tells you, step by step, how to write learning programs to suit your family and children.

"The best thing I ever did when I started homeschooling was read Beverley Paine's Getting Started with Homeschooling.

It has all the practical stuff, but most importantly it encourages you to look at WHY you want to homeschool, and WHAT you want to achieve. It will also show you that there are many different ways to home educate, and encourages you to find what works best for you & your children." Nikki www.alwayslearningbooks.com.au

A collection of 'how we homeschool' articles by 30+ home educating families from across Australia. Showing 'typical' days or weeks, this 'fly on the wall' look at what actually happens will both inspire, reassure and encourage you.

There is no 'right' way to home educate: a considerable variety of approaches and styles are demonstrated in this book.

Home Education Reports and Diaries

help to take the work out of monitoring your children's learning and include lists of educational aims and objectives for each subject area. Select from Early Childhood, Middle Childhood and Early Adolescence. Use the Diaries to keep track of your children's activities and the Reports to record them as discrete assignments in each subject area. Available from:

ALWAYS LEARNING BOOKS

Beverley Paine is the author of many Australian books and booklets on home education.

www.theeducatingparent.com and www.alwayslearningbooks.com.au

Beverley Paine, The Educating Parent

I first came across the idea of home education and we began seriously considering it in 1984 while our eldest was at kindergarten. Home educating our children was a wonderful privilege and I'm grateful for the incredible learning opportunities we experienced along the way.

Although our children are now adults, I continue to be an active support person and advocate for home education across Australia. I love to share my thoughts and experiences with others and to encourage them to 'have a go' and enjoy learning alongside their children.

Now that I'm a grandparent, and my children are beginning their home educating adventures with their families, I'm keener than ever to continue to reassure parents that it is a viable and successful alternative educational pathway for their children.

Stay in touch with me through my website <http://theeducatingparent.com>.

Beverley Paine

April Jermey

I took over the reins of Always Learning Books from my mum, Beverley, in 2011.

A part-time work-from-home mum of three, I 'officially' began home educating our eldest child in June last year, although, like my mum, I believe education is a life-long continuous process which begins at birth. As a child I enjoyed a mix of educational experiences at home and at school, completing high school in 1999.

I support the right of families to choose the education that best meets the needs of their children.
